

- The economy has had the fastest recovery from an economic recession in history thanks to the American Rescue Act. Unemployment is at its lowest sustained level historically since 1969 after (re)creating 14 million jobs. GDP is at a near-historic high of 4.9%, Biden cut the deficit by a historic amount of $1.3 Trillion, the Stock market is on the rise, inflation is down to 3.7% and dropping to 2% while wages are growing at 4.3%. This drop will also bring down interest rates soon. Medicare can negotiate prescription drug prices. Insulin is capped at $35. We have the lowest uninsurance rate for medical care in history. The country is embarking on a once-in-a-century Infrastructure Project, and chip manufacturing which has brought back 250,000 manufacturing jobs as well as dramatic new initiatives in Clean Energy which has grown greater than coal, while oil production and exports are at an all-time high. And lastly, Biden has issued executive orders protecting LGBTQ rights, abortion rights and addressing police reform.
- On October 2023, the FBI released their annual crime report, which highlighted a welcome and surprising trend that violent crime is declining in America. Not only has violent crime fallen 23% from 2002 to 2022, but also in the past year alone murders fell 6% and violent crime declined 2% overall.
